The CranioSacral Osteopathy is a gentle hands-on method of evaluating and enhancing the functioning of a physiological body system, called the craniosacral system. It releases restrictions and tensions in the cranio-sacral system and improves the functioning of the nervous- , the muscu-loskeletal-, the vascular-, the lymphatic-, the endocrine-, and the respira-tory system. Therefore, the self-regulation of the whole body improves, and supports health and recovery from diseases, surgery, and injuries.

LAO FRIENDS HOSPITAL FOR CHILDREN

In 2014, FWAB opened the Lao Friends Hospital for Children (LFHC) in Luang Prabang, Laos: the first children's hospital in the whole region, and to date the only neonatal unit.
LFHC operates a 25-bed hospital complete with an operating theater, a neonatal unit, an outpatient clinic, and a training program. A mobile team is also working in remote areas, offering health care to children and education to parents in the villages. Every year the LFHC treats almost 25,000 patients – every dollar supports the treatment of children, as even harmless injuries or infections can very quickly affect or even threaten a child's life, if he or she does not receive medical care.
